ACF Associates Named One of the “Top 10 Canada Defense Technology Providers” of 2022

PETERBOROUGH, Ontario, January 3, 2023 – The Loomex Group is excited to announce that its subsidiary company, ACF Associates, was named one of the “Top 10 Canada Defense Technology Providers” of 2022.

The Top 10 Technology Provider Listing is an annual award published by Aerospace & Defense Review. This year, the listing recognizes the top Canadian defence technology providers leveraging technology to improve Canadian defence capabilities.

Andy Fitzgerald, Executive Vice-President of ACF Associates, says of earning this distinction, “We are extremely fortunate to have a talented team of professionals inspired by innovation and committed to delivering excellent customer service. We are also grateful to have customers who value long-term partnerships and are willing to look externally to leverage expertise to improve their outcomes. The future is bright, and we are excited about it!”

“We are thrilled and honoured to work alongside an incredible group of talented individuals offering innovative solutions. The recent award is proof that a small to medium size aerospace businesses like ACF, are relevant and needed in the Canadian Defence sector” says Trent Gervais, President & CEO of ACF Associates’ parent company, The Loomex Group.

ACF Associates is receiving this award in recognition of its design and development of performance management capabilities for aerospace defence programs. The company’s customers include the Department of National Defence and many prominent aerospace defence companies within Canada.

About ACF Associates: ACF Associates, founded in 2006, is a Canadian company owned by The Loomex Group, a Canadian wholly owned company, that offers customizable services to help aerospace and defence organizations improve performance management for complex programs.
