Boeing Contracts Deepen Peterborough Company's Work in Aerospace Defence

Peterborough, Ontario: $10 million (USD) in contracts for ACF Associates Inc. has intensified the Peterborough company's role in the aerospace defence industry. The work is being awarded by Boeing Vancouver in the form of two multi-year contracts and will be based from offices at the Peterborough Airport. The new contracts involve delivery of performance management services and in-service optimization for Boeing's international defence programs, which include Canada's multi-mission helicopter Chinook program and the international programs for the Boeing P-8A maritime patrol and reconnaissance aircraft fleets.

"ACF's innovation in performance management and expertise in military in-service support makes it a logical choice for this work. The company's innovative capability has been rolled out to support several international Boeing programs and this investment will enhance and accelerate this implementation", states Al Meinzinger, President of Boeing Canada.

As part of the new contracts, ACF will support the development of a Performance Management Centre of Excellence for Boeing's international defence programs. According to Andy Fitzgerald, Executive Vice-President of ACF Associates Inc., "Boeing is an ideal customer for our capabilities, with its forward-thinking approach to customer satisfaction and optimization of in-service support. It is with great pride we count them as a key customer through which ACF has been reaching the international market."

ACF Associates Inc. is a privately held Canadian company owned solely by The Loomex Group Ltd., which has its headquarters at Peterborough Airport in Ontario, Canada. ACF specializes in performance management and decision-support services for the aerospace defence industry, with a focus on optimizing the availability of military fleets and reducing sustainment costs.
